FROM NORTHERN IDAHO

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON IDAHO CO, I T
October 22d 1866

EDITOR OREGONIAN

In my letter of September 9th I gave your readers a list of the quartz then discovered in this camp. Two veins were then known which I neglected to mention, viz

Idaho Deposite	3 feet wide	Gold and Silver
Ward	1½	"	Gold

Since that time the following have been discovered, viz

Hearst	20 inches wide	Gold and Silver
Pearce	1 foot wide	Gold and Silver
Eureka	4 feet wide	Gold and Silver
Copperhead	2 feet wide	Gold and Silver
Comstock	1½ feet wide	" Silver

The first three of the last list are regarded as rich, as estimated from the blossom and drift that are found.

Prospecting has now ceased for the season, especially for new mines, owing to the mantle of snow which now envelopes the ground. Some work is still being done in sinking deeper upon the veins already discovered. The W. P. Hunt has been opened to the depth of thirty feet, and discloses solid quartz of much richness, with good casing and other evidences of a good and permanent vein. The tunnel of Emerald has been completed a distance of 80 feet upon the vein including the open cut. This vein lies in running the above distance, exhibited several varieties of condition. At first the quartz strata between casings was about one foot. This was gradually closed in by the granite wall till nothing of the vein appeared but a hard clay seam of one inch thickness. It then widened gradually at the bottom of the tunnel, till at the present terminus of the tunnel it is three and one half feet between casings. The vein as now shown is a mixture of quartz, clay and granite. The quartz is well impregnated with silver. The present terminus of the tunnel is distant from the discovery shaft about 120 feet which, the vein at the depth of 12 feet disclosed itself nearly 30 inches wide, containing rich silver ore. The casing of this vein is good.

A shaft has been sunk upon the Keystone about 20 feet, at which depth the vein is 12 inches wide. About 1 000 pounds of the ore taken from this vein has been imperfectly crushed by an arastra, and yielded upwards of $40, in gold, to the half ton. No effort made to save the silver.

The Big Jacet vein has been opened to the depth of fifteen feet, and discloses a width of twelve inches of solid quartz, with gravel casing. A section of this vein embracing all the ore from casing to casing, has been tested by R. Manley Esq. of Lewiston, using the mill process with the following result. Gold, $221 22 silver, $78 42; total, $299 64. Numerous assays of ore from different veins have been made by different assayers with the most satisfactory results. The highest assay which I have known to be made, was made at Owyhee. The sample was taken from the Day vein. The free gold was first taken from the ore and the balance yielded upwards of $3,000 to the ton. With the free gold, it appears from the return, the entire yield of the sample was over $10,000 to the ton. But this I regard as far nishing no proper data for estimating the average of the entire ore of the vein, this can be better estimated from the result of the arastra working of the vein. Small shafts have been sunk upon other veins in camp, sufficient to develop the fact that the veins themselves contain rich ore corresponding with the float rock found in their vicinity. The proprietors themselves are mostly men in indigent circumstances, and they have expended most of their energies since June last in hunting and opening upon new veins. The consequence is that the long winter is before them without the means of subsistence should they continue upon the veins for further development during the winter, consequently I apprehend that comparatively little will be done in the way of tunneling and sinking upon veins during the ensuing five or six months. This condition of things is unfortunate for the early development of these veins. But we have every reason to hope that these men will get the assistance from the outside to warrant a vigorous energy in opening upon these veins next spring and summer.

In the month of September the attention of Hon George Hearst, an experienced assayer and quartz man from California, was attracted to this camp. This gentleman in company with several others from California, early last spring has been induced by a man named Robinson to visit the country north-east of Lewiston for the purpose of securing quartz veins of exceeding richness, represented by Robinson to exist in that locality. Robinson's tale proved a fiction, and himself an impostor, resulting in a loss of several thousand dollars to the party imposed upon, and their return to San Francisco, with the exception of Mr Hearst and a gentleman named Williamson. These gentlemen visited Oro Fino and Elk City, and finding nothing in the quartz line there worthy of their special attention started for home via Lewiston. Here they saw some samples of ore from this camp, which induced them to make a visit of one or two days to this place to personally inspect the veins from which the ore shown to them had been taken. Their advent here, though made with much distrust in view of their previous disappointment, proved to be very pleasant and gratifying to them—so much so that, instead of their intended visit of two days, they both remained with us twenty three days, and deserted a month longer to make exploratations and examination of the veins here, which the approaching winter forbade. During their stay they visited and carefully examined most of the veins here, and made tests of the ore. They also secured samples of the ore to be more thoroughly tested in San Francisco. They left us with the assurance that they would return the ensuing spring prepared to operate with us.

Before leaving, I addressed a note to Mr Hearst, touching the quartz of this district, to which he gave the following reply

FRIEND LELAND—I am in receipt of your letter of inquiry in regard to my opinion of the gold and silver quartz in Warner's Diggings, and the obstacles in the way of working the same. In regard to the quartz mines of Warner's Diggings, there is not sufficient work done on the veins to determine the real value of the mines, but the surface indications Continentals and Confederates.

We have among us a "teacher and representative" of the Democratic party, who acknowledges he is in the dark on a very grave subject, and requests us to give him light. On reading the article in which his appeal for light occurs, we are convinced that no man needs it more. He is unable to see the least difference between the moral and legal guilt of our revolutionary ancestors, and the guilt of those who were engaged in the late attempt to secure Southern independence. "George Washington," says he, "was a rebel in every legal sense in which Robert E. Lee was a rebel. By what impartial rule is the one a patriot and the other a traitor?"

The condition of one who can see no difference between the questions involved in the Revolution and those involved in the slaveholder's rebellion, is truly pitiable. He who can perceive no distinction between a resort to arms by a whole people to redress wrongs that were unendurable, after all peaceable means of redress had been tried in vain, and the conspiracy of a faction to destroy their Government when they could not complain of a single grievance they had suffered under it—such a person certainly does need information, and may well ask to be enlightened.

Our fathers asserted the right of revolution to deliver themselves from the tyranny and oppression of a monarchy that refused to hear any petitions for redress; the Southern rebels, as their Vice-President told them, had suffered no wrongs whatever, and asserted the right of revolution, not in a spirit of defense, but in a spirit of aggression; not to redress any wrong they had suffered, but to destroy a Government that had not wronged them.

The men of the Revolution appealed to arms as a last resource against tyranny; the men of the rebellion sought a pretext for commencing war on the Government; created that pretext themselves and attacked the Government without provocation.

The Continentals did not begin the war to obtain their independence, but fought in defence of their violated rights; the Confederates began the war, not to secure any rights that had been jeopardized or wrested from them, but to obtain their independence. The former did not at first desire a separate nationality, and did not declare their independence for nearly two years after the commencement of the struggle; the latter declared their independence months before the struggle began.

When the Revolution began there was not a thought of disloyalty to the crown; when the rebellion commenced its animating passion was hatred of, and disloyalty to the Government.

The king commenced the war on the colonists, and the first aggressive act was committed by his troops: the rebels commenced the war on the General Government and the first act of hostility was committed by an order from the usurping authorities at Montgomery.

Is there no difference between resistance to an attempt to force tyrannical measures on a people in contravention of law and justice, and an aggressive movement to overthrow a Government that has given no portion of its people cause of complaint? There is a difference, and this difference is just that which exists between the acts of the men of the Revolution and the men of the rebellion.

Resistance against the oppression of a monarchy is widely different from a rebellion in a popular government against the will of the majority. The former is an act in the interest of liberty, while the latter is an act in the interest of an oligarchy, and therefore in the interest of despotism. There is no right of armed revolution in a republican government, for the fundamental doctrine of that species of government is that the majority shall rule and the minority shall submit. The minority which rebels, strikes a blow directly at the foundation of popular government. In a government like ours there are frequent revolutions; but they must take place in the manner prescribed by law.

The Colonists did not undertake to subvert the British Constitution and overturn the British Government. The Southern rebels attacked the Constitution and Government of the United States. Had their efforts succeeded the result would have been the utter subversion of the Constitution and the destruction of the principles on which it is founded.

"What is the difference between George Washington and Robert E. Lee?" Washington swore to support the Constitution and kept his oath inviolate. Therefore he was a patriot. Lee swore to support the Constitution and broke his oath. Therefore he is both a perjurer and a traitor. Washington fought for liberty and was therefore a benefactor of his race. Lee fought for slavery and therefore is justly detested by all men who love freedom. Washington took up arms against a monarchy that oppressed his countrymen. Lee took up arms against the Government that had educated him, supported him and made him all he was, and which oppressed no portion of its people. Is there no difference between the two men?

The comparison between the Continentals and Confederates does not do the latter any credit. And the man who says he can see no difference between the acts of George Washington and Robert E. Lee, does himself no credit by the admission.

"The late Radical State Convention of Nevada nominated one Parkinson for Auditor, after it was openly proved that he had rejoiced at the Federal defeat at Bull Run, in 1861.—O'Meara in the Idaho World.

A convention of Constitutional Democrats at Mobile, Alabama, nominated for Probate Judge, one Raphael Semmes, against whom it needed no proof that he was a rebel, a pirate and a Democrat, and the Union loving Democrats late from the Confederate army, elected him. Basely as President Johnson is disposed to let toward that class of men who were the victims of Semmes' acts of outlawry, he dared not allow the new judge to assume the duties of his office; whereat O'Meara, of the World whines as follows:

"The President still refuses to permit Raphael Semmes, (of Alabama fame) to sit as Probate Judge in Mobile, Alabama, to which office the people elected him. The President does not interfere with any of the Judges in any of the Northern States."

A Copperhead paper complains that the Unionists charge its party with having encouraged and defended secession, and adds that the charge is "simply false." Yet in the very same article in which the complaint is made, the following paragraph occurs:

"As to the moral phase of the late attempted revolution, it is not our right to judge. We have no authority over the consciences of others. If a citizen believed that his primary allegiance was due to his State government, he would have been moral traitor not to stand by his State in a collision with the Federal Government. That was a question of ethics which every man must decide for himself, and a matter of opinion necessarily involves no moral turpitude."

If this is not "defending secession," we should be glad to have some Copperhead or Confederate tell us what it does mean.

WHITE INDIANS.—The Denver News says that Captain Andrews and party, on their way to the States, came into camp one evening fifty miles east of Fort Kearny. Soon after a commotion was observed among the animals picketed out, and it was found that a party of white men were there, who fired on the Captain's party, mortally wounding one person. The white depredators, however, were driven off.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO NOVEMBER 3.

The Maryland Police Commissioner Case.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—The Maryland impeachment case is considerable attention. Gov. Swann concluded the trial of the police commissioners on Wednesday night, and removed them on Thursday morning, appointing James Young and Wm. L. Vaillant. The old board refused to surrender office, and the new board have made proclamation inviting good citizens to recognize their authority and keep the peace.

Rumored Cession from Mexico Denied.

Senor Romero, Mexican Minister, stated in conversation yesterday that he was not aware of any negotiations for ceding any portion of Mexican territory to the United States.

Registration of Voters in New York—Suicide.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Thirty-seven thousand voters were registered yesterday, making a total of one hundred and fourteen thousand.

Wm. A. Francis, Treasurer of the Montana Mining and Discovery Company, committed suicide at his residence in this city yesterday.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—Wm. Terry was arrested last evening on charge of murder, alleged to have been committed in Mono county. He was indicted for the murder of John Morse, but escaped before his trial, and was not heard of again until arrested last evening. Gov. Low offered a reward of $500 for his arrest and conviction, a few weeks since.

Thos. McFarland, a workman on the saw manufactory of Sheffield & Putterson on Pine, below Battery, was instantly killed yesterday by the bursting of a grindstone from centrifugal force, a fragment striking him on the head, fracturing his skull.

Judge Sawyer this morning rendered judgment for the plaintiff for $45,001, in the suit of Geo. C. Johnson ex. the Pacific Novelty Iron Works, brought to foreclose a mortgage.

A French woman who keeps a cigar store, who gave her name as Madame Robinette, was arrested last evening for appearing on the streets in male attire. She was dressed in the height of fashion, with silk hat, kid gloves and cane, attracting a good deal of attention.

A store was entered by burglars last night and safe cut open and robbed of $285 in coin.

Judge Cowles this morning admitted Peter Headley, the defaulting Gold Hill Agent of W. F. & Co., to bail in the sum of $20,000. D. Donahue, clerk, has filed his petition in insolvency. He has met with loss by his having to support an aged father and large family, for all of which his salary was inadequate.

Commander Sullivan held Capt. Thomas, of bark Cossack, to answer before the U. S. Grand Jury, charged with beating a seaman named Samuel Wesley. Bail was fixed at $5,000.

The Bledsoe Party Expedition.

On Wednesday morning we received a visit from Mr. A. McDonald, formerly a miner on Moore's Creek, near Pine Grove, in this county, and lately of Montana, who, with a comrade, George Fuller, of Centerville, had just returned from the expedition, in search of gold mines in the Wind river country, headed by Capt. Ralph Bledsoe. Mr. McDonald and some others left Virginia City, Montana, August 1st, and traveled along with the Bledsoe and other parties to the crossing of the Yellowstone, where they all entered into an organization, forty-five strong. The expedition journeyed on across the following streams: Boulder creek, Stillwater creek, the Three Rosebuds, and Clark's Fork, to Prior's Fork. They prospected along the banks of each of these streams, but found only indifferent indications. The gold was scarce and scattered. From Prior's Fork they proceeded to the mouth of the Big Horn Canyon, whence Wind river takes it names, and thence down the the canyon forty miles, by a very rugged, rocky, difficult Indian trail, to Fort Big Horn. Col. Kinney was in command, and the party were cordially received and hospitably entertained at his post. After a pretty thorough exploration of that section, without a successful result, the party turned back and proceeded to Stinkingwater, and journeyed to its source. At the foot of the mountains they met Standifer's party, who had crossed over from Prior's creek. This was late in August. The two parties prospected that region for four or five days. They found barely the "color" in scattered spots. But they found coal beds and several soda, mineral and hot springs, and in one place a steaming hot spring in the rock, which fumed and puffed like a steam engine. From there the joint parties crossed over to Gray Bull creek, at which place Standifer's party left the Bledsoe expedition and Mr. McDonald has not heard of the former party since then. Standifer had about fifty men with him at that time. The Bledsoe party then journeyed to Owl Creek, where they camped for hunting purposes. They found plenty of deer, elk, antelope, grizzlies, and buffaloes in large herds. Capt. Bledsoe killed two grizzlies in one day. Mr. McDonald killed a huge bear also, and a buffalo, the tongue of which he dried and brought as a present to us. The stream afforded plenty of fine fish.

Early one morning a large band of Indians were discovered approaching the camp. Immediately the animals were driven into camp and the men set to work to prepare for a fight. Breastworks were hastily thrown up and their arms put in readiness. A few of the chiefs came towards the camp, declared themselves to be friendly, and desired an interview. They were Sioux, but professed to be Arapahoes. They numbered 110 warriors, had the scalp of a Bannock victim with them, and were plainly on the war path, although they showed papers certifying to their good character, issued to them from Federal officers. After a parley, during which they were kept at a safe distance, they departed.

After a stop of three days the party proceeded to Meadows and Lodge Pole—the main fork of Wind river. Four days were spent in prospecting up the river and along its tributaries, but with poor success. As in other places, a little gold was found, but not enough to warrant a Chinaman to work there. While encamped, during a snow storm, two Bannock Indians came in. After dinner, McDonald and five others accompanied them to an Indian camp about three miles off. Before arriving there a party of about 300—Bannocks and Shoshones—mounted, gorgeously attired in war costumes and trappings, and armed to the teeth, suddenly came upon them. Fortunately for the six white men, the Indians were friendly disposed towards the whites generally, but were on the war path after the Sioux, who had killed and scalped a Bannock Indian a few days before, and whose scalp the party had seen with the Sioux on Owl creek. The Shoshone chief was Wash-ke, who gave Gen. Connor so hard a fight on Bear river a few years ago.

At this point there were a few who split off from the main party and took another route. The main body, of about forty, proceeded to the head of Wind river, and crossed over the great divide, on to the Rocky mountains, and to the headwaters of Wind, Snake and Green rivers. All of this extensive region was prospected, but with no profitable results. Finally, satisfied that gold did not exist in anything like paying deposits in that whole country, the expedition resolved to turn back and make their way to the settlements.

They journeyed down the south fork of Snake river and crossed to the big lakes on the north fork. Near the lakes they met the Patterson party who were on their way back from a fruitless prospecting tour of the headwaters of Snake river. Mr. McDonald says the big lakes are much greater than is generally believed—the largest being about thirty miles long and ten miles wide. From the north fork the party continued to break up and divide off. Some started for the East, some for California and others for places in Idaho. Capt. Bledsoe, Col. James Kinney, Mr. McDonald and Geo. Fuller came into Boise City together, and the latter two returned here, as noted. They had no trouble with the Indians during the trip.

On Prior's fork Capt. Bob. Bailey with about 70 others left Standifer, and went down Big Horn Canyon to Powder river, in the Big Horn mountains, since which time no information has been had from them.

Mr. McDonald gives an interesting description of the vast range of country he has traveled over on the expedition. He is an experienced miner, has mined in California, Idaho and Montana, and assures us that he has not, in all his wanderings and toiling, found any country so rich and generally profitable to the miner as the Boise Basin country. The diggings in Montana are neither so extensive nor so rich in the aggregate as the diggings in Idaho, and in gold and silver quarts, it is a question whether the world contains a country so exceedingly rich in both as this.

Something has been said, by persons who profess to know, of the vast and valuable farming lands to be found in the valleys of Gallatin, Madison and Wind rivers and Clark's Fork. There is no valley land along Wind river fit for cultivation, and the soil in Clark's Fork valley is quite valueless for any purpose. There are some fair farming lands in Madison and Gallatin valleys, but as the farmers pay only $30 (in greenbacks) per month for hands, it cannot be a profitable business. Bozeman City, in Gallatin Valley, is the principal town. It is about the size of Moorestown, in this county. From Owl creek to Snake river the soil was generally a sort of marble wash, and sandstone formations were everywhere found. The whole region is a barren, wild, uninviting waste; is poorly timbered, save along the streams, and of no imaginable worth for any useful purpose. Along the shores of the big lakes Mr. McDonald noticed names cut in the trees, with dates reaching as far back as 1832, which shows that white men were there at least that early.—Idaho World.

POOR OAKLANDERS.—In a late notice of the city of Oakland the San Francisco Bulletin says: "After nightfall the watchful ferry guardians cut off all communication with the great city on the other side. No operas, no theaters—all temptation is cut off, and there is nothing for the Oaklanders to do but to be good, and go to bed."

CONFLICT OF JURISDICTION.—We learn that there is a conflict of jurisdiction between the authorities of the United States and the Territory of Montana. The United States claim exclusive jurisdiction over criminal matters, because it is an Indian country, the right of the Indians in the soil not having been extinguished. Our District Attorney denies this position, and claims jurisdiction under the laws of the Territory.—Helena (Montana) Gazette.

A lady in Lafayette, Ind., recently in preparing her Sunday dinner put some beans in a pot to bake. In a hurry to get to church, she inadvertently put her hymn book in the pot and wrapped a piece of pork in her pocket handkerchief and took it to church with her. Her mortification was intense upon discovering her mistake during service; so was her husband's at the singularly pious composition of the repast.

In the elections that have been held in Pennsylvania since 1850, the Union majorities have averaged less than 15,000. This year the majority was over 17,000.

LADIES.—"Martha Washington" Hair Restorer will make you look young again. It is also a splendid hair dressing.

NO CARDS.—When these words are added to a marriage notice, they must not be understood as meaning that the happy couple have not visited the PICTURE GALLERY of ELLSWORTH & CARDWELL, 69 Front street, and obtained a dozen of those SPLENDID CARD PICTURES, for which those gentlemen are so justly celebrated. Children should be brought in the forenoon.

ANOTHER WAR THREATENED.—As the Fall trade begins, there seems to be no end to the competitors for low prices, and it is therefore to the interest of the public to know that Messrs. KOHN & FISHEL, at the ST. LOUIS STORE, NO. 111 FRONT STREET, sell the best quality of Custom-Made Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, &c., at such low prices as to astonish the oldest inhabitant. "Competition is the life of trade," therefore call in and examine the stock and compare it with the prices elsewhere.

BUCHTEL'S PREMIUM GALLERY was represented at the State Fair, as it always has been, and did take the FIRST PREMIUM as usual. His work stands for itself and does not require bombastic puffs in self-written cards, to recommend itself to the public. All kinds of work in the art furnished in the very latest styles.

SAD ACCIDENT.—A fatal accident occurred at the wharf of Couch & Flanders at 8 o clock on Saturday morning, which resulted in the death of Mr. Thomas Foreman, well known in this city, and we understand was once employed upon the Police force. He was engaged with Messrs. Gill & Tucker in finishing the extension of the wharf. Mr Gill and the deceased were engaged in placing the planks crosswise upon the string pieces, after dropping his end of the plank, Mr. Foreman seemed to lose his balance, he tottered for a moment and then fell from the stringer to the wharf below, a distance of twelve feet—striking upon his head, crushing his skull and breaking his neck. He then fell from the flooring of the wharf to the ground below, a distance of twelve or fourteen feet. He was no doubt instantly killed by the fall to the flooring of the wharf, and when reached by his fellow workmen was found to be dead. It was but a few feet from where he struck the wharf to where it was unfloored. The deceased was a Scotchman by birth, was a resident of this city for a number of years, and was well known in Portland, where he has relatives living near Forest Grove, and to whom a messenger was immediately dispatched. He was a member of No 3 Engine Co.

INJURY FROM FALLING.—A man named Jacob Smith was carried from the Dalles on Friday morning to come to Portland. While walking down the railroad track to the steamer, in the darkness, he fell through a place from which the planks had been carelessly or accidentally removed, striking with great force his body across a railroad tie. Though conscious of being severely hurt, he was able to come down and put up at the New Columbian Hotel on coming down, where Drs. Chapman and Watkins were called to his assistance, but upon an examination of his injuries, it was found that internal blood vessels had been ruptured and little if any chance existed for his recovery. On Saturday, hemorrhage set in, under which the unfortunate man sank on Sunday morning, when he expired. He was formerly from Noblestown, Pennsylvania, where his father now resides, and has a brother residing near Auburn, California.

STATE ITEMS.

The ladies of the Catholic church, at the Dalles lately held a festival and fair which brought in the handsome net sum of near $500.

It is stated that George Thomas, an old stage man of Oregon has gone to Salt Lake to make arrangements for putting on a line of stages from that city to the Dalles.

Colonel Baker has purchased Camp Watson, where during a month or so snakes. It is reported that his Warm Springs allies to which he had been corralled during the early days of the Snake per... to arrived at the camp with out them, and it is pretty well understood that they were driven by the Warm Springs, to avenge the late murder of one of their number by the snakes.

A correspondent says the Oro, a City Enterprise. Informs us of a painful accident which occurred near Neely on Friday of last week. A young man by the name of E. L. Boynton accidentally shot himself with a shot gun charged with eighteen buck shot. He was standing on the fence with the breech of the gun resting in his foot, when it slipped, and the hammer striking a rail it was discharged, tearing away the muscle of his arm, and lodging several shot in his shoulder.

The "breakwater" at Oregon City is approaching completion. The Enterprise thus describes it: "The new arm or extension nearly reaches the Custom House, and is raised higher than the high water mark of 1861. It is constructed as follows: Three parallel timbers 15 inches square (all the timbers average this size,) are bolted to the bed rock with 1¼ inch iron. Cross timbers laid on and bolted to form a bottom, three timbers are bolted on each side with cross-ties every ten feet, 17 feet high. This lugo bin of timber and iron is 2,100 feet long, 20 feet wide in the main on the top, and 32 feet wide at the angles, and from 12 to 17 feet high. There were twenty-two tons of iron bolts used to fasten this ponderous barrier, and the workmen are now loading it with hundreds of thousands of tons of rock."

FROM WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

We clip the following from the Vancouver Register of the 3d:

STOLEN MONEY RECOVERED.

We are glad to learn that there is a fair prospect of the recovery of the money stolen from Paymaster Glenn. It seems that the money was stolen by two soldiers who subsequently deserted. They afterwards quarreled about the division of the spoil. At last one took $26,000, and one $22,000. The thief with the $25,000 was followed to Walla Walla, and there arrested. Upon his person was found $1,000 in one hundred dollar bills, $6,000 to at old shed and the balance (except about $300) was found sewed in his clothes. Upon his arrest he exposed his confederate,' who had left for California. The telegraph has been put in operation, and there is no doubt of his final arrest.

LADIES INDUSTRIAL SOCIETY FAIR.

The amount of the nett proceeds of the Fair and supper of the Ladies' Industrial society, of the M. E. Church, on Monday evening, ult., was $53 50 coin, and $16. 86 currency.

Operations Against the Indians.

A soldier of the 1st Oregon Cavalry, who has served three years in Eastern Oregon, writes as follows to the Owyhee Avalanche of the the manner in which operations against the Indians are carried on in that section:

On the morning of the 7th ult., Major Marshall marched out from camp Smith with three companies of U. S. Cavalry Camped at Camp Alvord the first night. On the following morning issued the following order, that "Capt. Hunt will proceed with his company to Donner, on Bitron Creek, there to await until joined by Major Marshall, who will proceed to march to said points by way of Warner's Lakes." The writer of this was detailed to act as guide to Capt. Hunt. This Bitron Creek lies directly west of Stein's Mountain and empties its waters into Malheur Lake. On our march thither, saw no Indians. On the fourth day out made camp, and lay there fourteen days awaiting Marshall's arrival—but no Marshall, or word of his whereabouts, until at length Capt. H. was compelled to send back to Camp Smith for further supplies, detailing twenty men for that purpose, thus leaving but twenty-eight men in camp. On the second night after the above party had left camp, our camp was surrounded by about one hundred Indians (half of which number being mounted) but were not attacked. Early next morning myself and an orderly went out to reconnoitre (opposition of the enemy, when we were fired upon and driven into camp. Lt. Patton was forthwith dispatched with a squad of ten men, came on to the Indians five miles out and was fired upon. One man was wounded and four horses. Owing to the position of the ground, Lieut. Patton was compelled to fall back some distance, when he made a stand and kept up the fight for three hours, killing six Indians and wounding many more, but was at length, owing to the superiority of the enemy, compelled to retreat.

Had Major Marshall joined his command with that of Hunt's as agreed upon, or even notified the latter of his whereabouts then there might have been some excuse offered upon his part. as it was he ordered Hunt, with but a handful of men; into the very heart of that country known to all men acquainted with the geography of that section as the stronghold of the Snake tribe, there to await further orders. Had Marshall have formed the junction agreed upon, there cannot be a shadow of a doubt but that this party of Indians could have been surrounded and killed almost to a man, thus securing at least one victory as the reward of a Summer's campaign, which has cost the General Government thousands upon thousands of dollars, and yet are as far, apparently, from the object of their purpose as ten years ago. The question is, will the Government continue in office such men as Marshall, and that, too, at such an enormous cost to the whole country; men who, either through cowardice or ignorance, fail to accomplish one single object for which they are sent? Or will the Government wake up to a true state of things and send energetic and thorough men—men of will and nerve? The power and numerical force of the Snake Indian is to a great extent a myth: and as to their fighting qualities they are greatly over-estimated. The troops now in the field and acting in this portion of the Snake country are all-sufficient, in my opinion, formed from three years service, to effectually wipe out in one year's time every Snake out of this Territory, as well as Oregon. But unfortunately for the good of the service, never properly managed, when a subordinate officer who is possessed of fighting qualities, steps into the ring, he is almost invariably held in check by his superior officers, and over crippled from doing good service by reason of the want of men, while his commanding officer goes marching over the country with the great body of troops at his heels, and yet never finding an Indian. Such is my experience, found as before remarked upon three years' service in this Department. And yet, during this time, although constantly in the saddle for six months out of twelve, I have yet to see where any advantage has been gained by the soldier of the Indians during the past Summer. More than one opportunity has been presented for chastising the "red devils" had our Commanding Officer but made the proper disposition of the forces under his control. I will here state that up to the, time of my leaving Camp Smith we had neither seen nor heard of the gallant Major, alias Lieut. Col., promoted for gallant services made and performed on the Owyhee last Spring, where he lost his cannon, etc., so I suppose.

ORIGIN OF THE DIAMOND.—M. de Chancourtois, in a recent paper to the French Academy, says that the diamond is derived from hydrocarburated emanations, just as sulphur is derived from hydrosulphurated ones. He contends that the diamond is separated by the humid combustion of a carburetted hydrogen, the carbon of which is only partly oxydized with the whole of the hydrogen, while the remainder of the carbon that has escaped oxydation is deposited in crystals, that is, in the state of diamond.

What Experienced Mill Men think of the Portable Steam Saw Mills built by the Oregon Iron Works!

PORTLAND, Oct. 18th, 1866

TO THE OREGON IRON WORKS—

Gentlemen:—The Portable Steam Saw Mill which we purchased of you last spring for Pend d'Oreille Lake, has been in operation during the past season, and has more than met our expectations in its performance. With three men, we turn out from three to four thousand feet, and with five men, five thousand feet per day of ten hours, and we take pleasure in recommending these mills as the most SUBSTANTIAL, DESIRABLE AND PERFECT MILLS IN USE, and especially adapted to the wants of this country, on account of their compact form, ease of transportation and the facility with which they can be set up and put in operation. Although subjected to the rudest sorcere tests, no repairs have been required.

Letter from Peter Cooper to President John son

Andrew Johnson, President of the United States —My Dear Sir It has been with heartfelt sor row that I have witnessed the conflict of opinion that has unfortunately prevailed between your self and the Congress of the United States in relati n to matters believed to be vital to the welfare f our common country

Such differences of opinion when honestly en tertained (and sometimes violently contended for) show the reason why charity is the greatest of all virtues because the exercise of charity is so eon stantly required to enable us to bear with the weaknesses and imperfections of each other

There is, I believe, no better way to reconcile differences of opinion than to put a full an fair standing of the causes of which such misunder standings originate

To do this effectually it is necessary to begin by admitting the fact that all effects physical, moral and political are the results of causes that are equal to their production

A little reflection on the almost almighty power that the circumstances of birth, education, cli mate and country have exerted to form and fix erroneous opinions that often lead men, like Paul of old, to believe that they are doing God service when they are hanging men, women and children to prison and to death—reflection on these facts will show how very wise it is for those who have never made a mistake to send the first stone at those who honestly entertain opinions different from their own

It has been to me a source of sorrow and regret to hear of men in Congress or in any other de partment of Government, who destroy their influ ence for good by calling each other hard names, which never better the condition of themselves or their country

I am sure that if Sumner could have been born of your parents, and subjected to all the circum stances and conditions that have fallen to your lot through life, he would then have been the man that would have declared the many patriotic truths that have been proclaimed by yourself

And if you could have been born and subject ed to all the conditions that have made Sumner what he is, you would then have been exerting, as he has done, all the powers of a mighty mind to abolish slavery in all its forms from the face of the earth, as one of the most corrupting evils that ever brought death and desolation, as the scourge of God, to teach us to do to others as we would that they should do unto us; you would then have been, like Sumner, reading what Solon said 2 600 years ago—that whatever day makes a man a slave takes half his worth away

If it were possible for us to see ourselves as others see us it would inspire us with charity and teach us to overcome the evils of which we com plain with kindness, instead of returning railing for railing and evil for evil

I have thought it strange and unaccountable that you should so severely censure the large ma jority in Congress for adopting so mild a form of measures as a means for the guarantee of a re publican form of government in the States so lately in rebellion—measures so much more mod than those so forcibly recommended by yourself, when you said "Treason against the Govern ment is the highest crime that can be committed, and those engaged in it should suffer all its pen alties," and when you declared "that treason must be made odious—that traitors must be pun ished and impoverished"

You say, "They must not only be punished, but their social powers must be destroyed If not they maintain an aristocracy, and may again be come numerous enough for treason to become re spectable"

You go further, and say that "after making treason odious, every Union man should be re munerated out of those who have inflicted this great suffering on the country"

Again you say "I hold it a solemn obliga tion in every one of those States where the rebel armies have been beaten back or expelled I care not how small the number of Union men M enough to man the ship of state, I hold it to be a high duty to protect and secure to them a republi can form of government until they again gain strength They must not be smothered by inches"

In calling a Convention to restore States, you ask, "Who shall restore it? Shall the man who gave his influence and his means to destroy the Government?" Is he to participate in the great work of reorganizing the government that brought this misery on the State? If this be so, then you say in truth that all the precious blood of our brave soldiers and officers will have been made unavailable in vain

You ask, "Why all this carnage?" It was that treason might be put down and traitors pun ished Therefore you say "that traitors should take a back seat in the work of restoration"

You say "the traitor has ceased to be a citizen, and in forming the rebellion became a public en emy."

You further say "he forfeited his right to vote with loyal men when he renounced his citizenship and sought to destroy the Government."

You say "these rebel leaders must feel the pow er of the Government, treason must be made odious and traitors must be punished and impover ished"

You then add, "the day for protecting the lands and negroes of these authors of rebellion is past"

You say you "have been deeply pained by some things that came under your observation"

You say "we get men in command who, under the influence of flattery, fawning, and caressing, grant protection to rich traitors, while the poor Union man stands out in the cold"

You add, "traitors can get lucrative contracts while the loyal man is quibbled unde"

I indulge the hope that such a practice will no longer be tolerated in any branch of the Government

In relation to the reconstruction of the Govern ment you have wisely said, "We must not be in too much of a hurry," You add, "It is better to let them reconstruct themselves than to force them to do it"

In conformity with your own recommendation, the majority of Congress have devised and adopted an amendment to the Constitution that renders it conveniently practicable for all the rebel States to reconstruct themselves and come again into possession of those rights which they have for feited by rebellion—a rebellion that has cost the lives and limbs of untold thousands, and thou sands of millions of debt that remain yet to be wrung from the toiling labor of our people

The rebel States will certainly accept and adopt the amendment that renders reconstruction so favorable and convenient before the assembling of another Congress, unless they are encouraged to delay, in the hope that those who were half traitors during the war will come to their relief and reinstate them in power, when they would hope to get payment for re-enslave their ne groes by legislation, which they fairly forfeited by rebellion

After having read the many patriotic sayings and denunciations that you have made against rebels and their rebellion, I was led to believe that you would be about the last man that would recommend or accept of any terms for reconstruc tion that would not offer a full security for the future, even if you might be persuaded by my self and others to waive an indemnity for the past

I was grieved and disappointed while showing my respects to you as President of the United States, to find myself listening to what appeared to me an unjust and unmerited censure of the measures which a large majority of the people's representatives believed to be right, and the mild est measures for reconstruction that could be adopted with any chance of re-establishing justice or of promoting the general welfare"

I, with thousands of others who labored to aid the Government in putting down the rebellion, would have rejoiced if Congress could have found all the reports of the continued persecution of Union men throughout the South to be groundless and false

The whole Republican party would have re joiced if Congress could have found it safe to ad mit the members offered to the Southern States at once to a full share in the Government

This being my wish does not authorize me to denounce the majority in Congress and accuse them of being radicals and traitors, "hanging on the skirts of a Government which they are trying to destroy"

It was said of old "the sin of ingratitude is worse than the sin of witchcraft"

To my mind our nation must live in everlast ing infamy if we fail to secure a full measure of justice to an unfortunate race of men who were originally hunted down in their own country and carried off and sold like beasts into an abject slavery with all their posterity

This enslaved race has the strongest possible claims for kindness, as well as justice at the hands of the people and the Government of the whole country, and more especially from the peo ple of the South These unfortunate slaves have done a great portion of the labor that has fed and clothed the whites and blacks of the Southern country

As true as the laborer is worthy of hire so true is it that we, as a nation, cannot withhold justice and equal rights from a race of men that has fought and bled and labored to defend and pro tect the union of States in the hour of a nation's greatest extremity.

The enemies of our country and Government are now trying to persuade the community to be lieve that a war of rebes would result from giving the black man the same measure of justice and rights which the white men claim for themselves This will be found to be a groundless fear Our danger will always result from unequal and par tial laws We cannot make laws which will op press and keep in ignorance the poor without bringing on ourselves and country the just judg ment of an avenging God, who will reward us as a nation according to our works

With my best wishes for yourself and the pros perity and happiness of the nation I remain truly yours,

PETER COOPER

RISING STAR ORE

Twenty tons have recently been worked in the Lincoln Mill with very poor results It was not roasted and the ore is given as the main reason why it did not yield larger By assay this ore yields from a few dollars to several hundred per ton W H Wickersham informs us that he has made 36 per cent tests by pulverizing several pounds of the rock, putting it in a crucible and roasting it three or four hours in a blacksmith's forge, and thus secured results of over $600 per ton He is of opinion that thorough roasting will be necessary to work it successfully There is no doubt that the rock is rich in the precious metals The only mill test ever made previous to the one above men tioned was the rock subjected to two or three hours roasting and gave a yield of $173 per ton of ten tons. The main point is now established concerning this rock—that of its undoubted rich ness.

SILVER CORD

This mine is yielding very rich ore as usual We were shown very rich ore in large chunks by Mr Musgrave, of the Cosmos Mill: that came from this mine recently. Free flake gold abounds in the white solid quartz Some difficulty is ex perienced in working the ore in consequence of the presence of antimony, sulphur and iron After a series of experiments a plan has been decised which promises success A new set of concentra tors were put in this week and with the use of —— rifles and disuse of the ordinary pans, it is believed the precious metals will be saved The tailings, however, are being saved, and doubtless will pay well at a future working Like those from the sluices in placer mines at the first work ing, the tailings from the best of quartz mills will usually pay a second working.

CLOSED

The Poorman mine has been closed up for the winter This was done in accordance with the terms of the settlement between the Hays & Ray and Poorman companies as it was agreed that work should be continued till November 1st for the purpose of proving the value of the mines —and the latter has been done to the entire satis faction of all hands, including the public gener ally. From the best information we can obtain, it is the intention of the N Y & O Co and P F Bradford—the owners—to have the mine placed in the possession of one company—by the sale of all or purchase of part. During the coming week the mills will have finished working the balance of the ore now taken from the mine

INDIANS

Indians are prowling along Reynolds and Sucker Creeks. Mr Peter Gabriel says he and others encountered a small band the early part of the week near the head of Reynolds Creek, and as we understand fired one shot from their pack up Miller & Overmier report that a herder was fired at in the vicinity of their ranch this week The action of these show them to be hostile and need killing We publish for the benefit of those charged with the protection of the Idaho settle ments against Indian depredations, and to show that by an earnest search a few scalps might be "raked down It is also a matter of importance to packers, teamsters, ranchers, and all others, to be vigilant in guarding their stock

THE CURRENCY QUESTION

Next Thursday, November 1st, is the day upon which the new rates of gold dust and other cur rency are to go into practical effect. As far as we can judge the situation, the signers of the document are determined to carry out their pledge to the letter—' a consummation most devoutly to be wished ' The most important feature of the matter is the reduction of the price of Bosse dust $14 on the ounce—it will tend materially to stop its importation, which accomplished, it is well known that all the Jordan Creek dust extracted here next season can be inserted in a pig's peeper, and thus the necessity for a sharper lookout in financial transactions. A strict adherence to the resolutions referred to must have a very salutary effect, but we insist on our old opinion that the mercantile atmosphere will never be truly health ful here until all species of gold dust is driven out of use as currency.

MILITARY

Hill Beachy says the commanding officer of this Military Department has verbally promised him troops for the protection of the R R Stage Line at points subject to Indian visitations between the Owyhee and Humboldt rivers The Depart ment can spare a company for that special pur pose, and they should go at once Nothing could be more satisfactory to this people than the thorough protection of overland communication to Nevada California, &c. The importance of it is being felt, through all South Idaho The result of the Jennings campaign undoubtedly had a salu tary effect on the savage this season, as the regu larity of Beachey's stage testifies That chas tising and chasing demonstrated to Mr Lo that the Owyhees are "on it" retail occasionally But it is about time for the romantic ease to show a full hand again, and those whose business it is to fight this "tiger," should be on the lookout.

MINING COMPANIES IN OWYHEE

As a matter of general interest and some news to our readers, we give below the names, &c, of Boston Mining Companies operating, or sold to us operating in Owyhee county, I T We copy from the American Journal of Mining, published in New York City

COMPANY	SHARES.	STOCK	PLACE OF BUSINESS
Black Eagle	7,000	$ 350 000	59 Malden Lane, N Y

We have some knowledge of all except the 'Black Eagle,' "Morning Star" and "Nation al" Those are probably organized, but if they are doing any business in this county, it must be transacted with an unusual degree of quietness

The following items are from the World of the 27th ult

DIG PAY

It is said that Hugh Kelly and others, who are mining along Main street, below the City Hotel, in the vacant lot there and under one of the buildings, are making it pay big Rockers and picks and shovels are the only implements they use They have a good thing

ABBOTT'S NEW ROAD

The road sometime ago laid out by J A Ab bott, from Placerville to the Valley of the Middle Fork of the Payette, is now complete and open for travel. It runs northerly from Placerville to the old Lewiston trail crosses the North Fork of the Payette near Thomas' bridge, and thence northwesterly to Ewing's bridge on the Middle Fork, the present terminus of the road—a dis tance of fifteen miles to Placerville. It is Mr Abbott's intention to complete the road to Round Valley early in the ensuing summer, and this af ford a good, direct highway from this city to that fine agricultural region The portion of the road now thrown open to travel has cost about $4,000, and is a well executed work all the way, we are told.

NEW DISCOVERY

From an authentic source we learn that very rich quartz discoveries have been lately made in the Banner district about thirty miles from here in this county It is predicted the rock will yield equal to that in the Owyhee country in average richness We are promised further information from this newly developed district.

ROBBERY

Fred Karcher a book in the employ of Mr Vogel the hotel keeper at Moorestown, was robbed of nearly $900 in gold dust on Thursday A man named Noble Mekinney was arrested for the rob bery, but after an examination yesterday morning before Justice Turner, he was discharged.

ELECTRICAL SCIENCE —The following dialogue was recently overheard passing over a newly opened line

"Ply" in the rural districts to operator at head office, (loq)— Please don t bear so hard on your key when you send to me "

Operator— Why not?

"Ply"—Because it tears the paper on my machine when it marks!"

The recipient of the astounding scientific reply has not ventured to work on the circuit since

QUITE SENSIBLE.—The Golden Era sums up the elections in the East in a sensible style, It says

It is a great thing to know when to die; the Whig party hit the time exactly The most grace ful act the Know Nothing party ever committed was in abandoning its organization when success became hopeless The Democrats were always hard to learn, and we expect they will insist upon losing two or three more campaigns before they will allow themselves to be put under ground. It is quite evident the Radicals can whip them as often as there is occasion to fight

The New York News Copperhead has the fol lowing in its Washington correspondence

I don t know how you feel in New York about the coming elections but I do know that exag gerated politicians here who understand the working of the popular mind, are of opinion that the Congressional candidates will everywhere re ceive an elected majority to think that the President and Cabinet The Radicals think that their numbers will be increased in the next House of Repre sentatives but even if they hold their own or do not lose but a me half a dozen they will certainly have great cause for rejoicing Had the election been held immediately after the Philadelphia Con vention, there is reason to believe that the Presi dent's party would have made very strong gains But the New Orleans affair hurt the President's plans very much Its unfortunate tour through the North is now seen to have been a treu cul de mistake—one of the worst a politician ever made It is a very curious thing that though the Amer ican people like orators as applaud them they never make Presidents of their best speaking men look through the list of American Presidents and you will find that more than one half of them either made no speeches or very portentous and few orators that are among them were not of our first class men It is, therefore a fact that Americans do not like a President who talks They never elect that sort of man to that office and when a President not only talks but attacks in the abusive, incantious style which distinguish ed Mr Johnson s oratory, it seems like some thing inexpressibly shocking to the mass of the American people '

VIGILANCE COMMITTEE MAN IN TROUBLE —In New York City October 1st a Sheriff's officer ar rested George H Guddard, an alleged accessorial vigilance committee man of Arkansas, on a war rant issued by Justice Clarke, of the Supreme Court, on the complaint of William M Newman of the firm of Freudberger & Newman of New York From the testimony in the case, it appears that in 1861 the complainant was doing business at Camden, Arkansas When the rebellion was in augurated a vigilance committee was formed at Camden of which the prisoner was a member In May 1861 100 000 stand of arms, en route for Arkansas were seized in Cincinnati, which fact when it became known to the prisoner, he with others sought to retaliate on the storekeepers in Camden and vicinity who were thought to have Union sentiments Among the victims to their proceedings of confiscation was Mr Newman whose entire stock of goods worth $20 000, was seized and the property turned over to the Con federate government. The prisoner was ordered to find bail in the sum of $50,000, or stand com mitted to await the process of a civil action

IDAHO VEGETABLES —The Statesman of the 27th says

Boise valley is outdoing herself this year in the vegetable line as well as producing good crops of grain Mr Thomas Davis showed us yesterday potatoes weighing two and a half pounds each raised on the farm of Davis & Richey adjoining town A gentleman living down the valley sev eral miles whose name we forget, left on our table a few days ag turnips measuring twenty three inches in circumference, and a beet as large as a full grown wurzsel

CIRCULAR

To the Officers and Soldiers Oregon Volunteers

ASSISTANT CONSULTING OFFICE)
SALEM OR 21 1866)

BY RECENT ACTS OF CONGRESS ADDITIONAL BOUNTY is granted to Soldiers who enlisted in the service of the United States during the late Rebellion and who were honorably discharged therefrom after a service of not less than two years, and to the widows, children or legal representatives of such soldiers as may have died since the close of the Rebellion

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE PAYMENT OF BOUNTIES UNDER THE ACT TO REGULATE BOUNTIES APPROVED JULY 28, 1866

WAR DEPARTMENT ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE)
WASHINGTON September 15 1866)

1 All applications for the additional bounty shall be made within six months from the last day of October 1866 after which time no claims will be considered by the Department and you will find that more than one half of them either made no speeches or very portentous and few orators that are among them were not of our first class men It is, therefore a fact that Americans do not like a President who talks They never elect that sort of man to that office and when a President not only talks but attacks in the abusive, incantious style which distinguish ed Mr Johnson s oratory, it seems like some thing inexpressibly shocking to the mass of the American people '

2 No application shall be entertained or allowed by the Department, if such claim or a duplicate thereof shall have been previously filed in the office of the Second Auditor of the Treasury Department

3 All applications for the additional bounty shall be made by the Act to a surviving soldier shall be to the person hereinafter prescribed and the evidence of identity shall be the same as is now required of applicants for the bounty of deceased soldiers shall be in the form now required by the Treasury Department

4 Assistant examiners of claims of any regiment, battalion or independent organization shall have been properly acted upon the Secretary of War General shall take the necessary steps to perfect its organization

5 A register shall be kept in the Quartermaster General s office and also in the office of the Second Auditor of all claims received under the Act in which the claimants will be classified by regiments, &c. The claims be al lowed, the amount of bounty paid to each will be noted and if rejected the cause of rejection will be distinctly stated

6 In the application for bounty as required by the third of these rules the affidavit shall state each and every period of service rendered by the claimant and also that he never served otherwise than as herein stated

7 Organizations irregularly in the service of the United States or called out for special purposes as State Militia, Home Guards etc and not included in the general bounty laws are not included within the meaning of the Act

8 Soldiers enlisted for three years or during the war who were discharged by reason of the termination of the war shall be considered as having served out the period of their enlistment and are entitled to bounty under this Act

9 The minority of heirs claimants for bounty under this Act must be proven to have existed at the date of its passage Parents shall not receive jointly the bounty to which they may be entitled unless the father has abandoned the support of his family, in which case it shall be paid to the mother A residence in the United States shall not be a bar to the claim of heirs, who would otherwise legally inherit.

The provisions of the Act exclude from its benefits the following classes

1 Those who after deserting the full period of their enlistment, were honorably discharged at its expiration

2 Those discharged during enlistment by way of favor or punishment

3 Those discharged on account of disability contracted in the service but not occasioned by wounds received in the line of duty who shall not have previously served two or three years respectively at the time of discharge

4 Those discharged on account of disability existing, at the time of their enlistment

5 The heirs of those who have died since their discharge of wounds or disease not contracted in the service and in the line of duty

6 The surviving soldiers and heirs of deceased soldiers who under previous laws have received or are entitled to receive a bounty of more than $100 from the United States.

7 The surviving soldiers, as well as the heirs of de ceased soldiers, when such soldiers have bartered sold, assigned, loaned transferred, exchanged or given away their final discharge papers, or any interest in it o bounty prov ded by this or any other Act of Congress.

8 The Act of the 28th of July 1866, creates no right of inheritance beyond it was vested by the law under which those heirs received rights and that to receive the original bounty and dollars certain classes, brothers and sisters of heirs that were entitled to receive the original bounty from any claim for the additional bounty provided by the Act

Respectfully referred to the Attorney General for his opinion on the point whether the rules and regulations as within amended are in conformity with law

EDWIN M STANTON
Secretary of War

September 14, 1866.

I have examined these amended regulations, and am of opinion they are in conformity with law

HENRY STANBERY
Attorney General

September 15, 1866.

The foregoing rules and regulations are published for the information and guidance of all concerned

By order of the Secretary of War
